Earl Dennison lit a candle in honor of Mackenzie.

Hey Mackenzie, it's me. Earl Dean. It's been a little more than 8 years now, I'm 19 and got my own apartment. I wish I could call you and say that I love you. I miss you so much. I love you so much.

It's been almost two years. I miss you everyday. I can't see a green Jeep without looking for your plate.

Mackenzie was a recent student of mine at Southwest Community College. She was so bright and energetic and excited about graduating and passing her certification exam (which few do the first time they take it). She had sent me an email on Aug. 31 asking for my assistance in locating employment, and unfortunately, I did not respond for a few days. I hope you can be proud of her accomplishments, she had a real desire for a healthcare career and taking care of sick people. My thoughts and prayers are with you at this time, she was smart and beautiful young woman.
