This message comes your way to lighten your grief. We can turn to the creator for comfort and thank him for the resurrection hope. The book of Job 14th chapter and verses 14 and 15 helps us to know we can answer his call to life again. We must do what we can in our life now to see John again. I am sorry for your loss.

Growing up, going to see my cousins Jimmy and John was always a blast! From walking down to Grandma Josie's for snacks, a cold Mt Dew, and a fierce game of checkers against Grandma Josie. She always won of course singing "whatch gonna do when the well goes dry baby" as she took our last piece. Papaw would always have some candy for us when we got back that the "little white cat" brought while we were gone. We thought it was so cool that he could hear what the police were saying on the police scanner. Gramin would let us play on her new Apple computer and have water fights in the driveway with a hose, I think she won every time too. I hope some of these memories help you In celebrating Johns life. Love you all, Jimmy, John, Addy and Aunt Jane!!!William Scarbrough III
