She was employed by Holiday Inns in an administrative role in the Security Department for 12 years. During that time she joined the International Toastmasters Club.

Hot Springs, Arkansas was one of her favorite vacation spots and like a second home to her. She spent time dining out and boating on the lake with many friends and family. She loved trips to the beach as well and enjoyed several ocean cruises with family and friends.

Kirby Pines Retirement Community was the place she called home for her last 12 years. She was known for her warm smile and was an ambassador for the organization wherever she went. Her hobbies included swimming, dancing, bridge, and art in her younger years. Later she enjoyed watching movies, theater, and reading and listening to classical music. She was quite a photographer of family and friends all her life and she generously shared and organized albums which have become family treasures.
