Jack, you were a walking & talking encyclopedia, dictionary and everything in between. You taught me something new every day, whether it was a new word (usually a big one) or something completely frivolous. I will miss our daily chats about food, movies, theories, childhood stories and everything else. I don't think we left a stone unturned and for that I am thankful. I now have a lot of fun stories and memories that I will forever cherish. I think I speak for everybody at work when I say, you will forever be remembered and loved by us all. RIP Jack

Jack always took care of us. He provided, taught and brought joy to our lives. Growing up he always bested me in simple puzzle and sci-fi card games. Showcasing his intelligence.. took me 23 years to finally trump him in chess.. which brought a smile to his face. I hope hes proud of the man I'll become. I'll forever have love in my heart for the great man who taught me so much.

If someone were to ask what my idea of a perfect husband would be, I'd describe Jack. The better part of me. The most amazing once in a lifetime loves. You will always be, my person

Some of my favorite memories of Jack are watching our family dog, Foxy's, whole body, face, and being change when Jack came into through the door. She adored Jack, and Jack was so good with her! How wonderful to inspire such love and devotion. My continuous condolences and prayers to Tafnie, Alex, Blake, Tony, and Trey. Rest in peace, brother.
