“ Brit, I am so sorry! Last news I had, she was in rehab at Kings Daughters for rehab after a fall. Seems her arrangements are still pending? I heard August 31 from Beth Horton. Of all things—we’ve been scheduled to close on our Pickwick house, in Savannah, TN, on August 31! Please give all your family a hug for me. I know you’ll all miss her! With love, Judy Lamb

“ I knew James from school in Forest. In fact, he helped with coaching our Jr. High School Basketball Team. We would play practical jokes on him, and he would get so mad at us. I knew Peggy because she was James’ girlfriend. Her Daddy owned the Pontiac Dealership in Forest. By this time James was playing professional football for the Oakland Raiders. There was a silver Pontiac Grand Prix with black interior which I fell in love with. When I got my brother to go with me to see about purchasing the car, we found out that the car was special ordered for James with the Raider colors. Well, James decided he didn’t want it, and I was able to purchase it. It was always my favorite car.

Over the last several years Peggy & I became good friends on Facebook and often talked late at night when neither of us were able to sleep. I enjoyed her stories of James’ duck hunting trips. Of course, one of the highlights of her Facebook posts was her precious dog, Rosie. After James’ death, Rosie brought Peggy so much joy & comfort.

After James’ death, she suffered both emotionally & physically. He was the love of her life, and his death left a big hole in her heart and her life.

On August 29, a memory popped up in my Facebook memories from Peggy saying that I had not been posting a lot lately and asking if I was okay. That was Peggy’s nature, to check on her friends. Over the last several months, many of her friends noticed that she had not been posting on Facebook, and we all started worrying and trying to find out what was wrong. We soon found out that she was sick and in the hospital. It is so sad that in her last day she was not able to communicate with her many friends.

Rest In Peace sweet Peggy. You will definitely be missed. I love you and will miss you, but you are now with James & Jennifer.

“ I’ve known Peggy and James Harvey since High School. What a loving and kind couple. They had such a beautiful love story which was only deepened as they grew older and suffered life’s challenges together. After James died, Peggy struggled every day to make her life whole again by helping others go through hard times. She will be deeply missed by her many friends. My condolences to son Brit and the entire family. Kaye and Kelly Hodges
